"A soldier of England; an aide to Hamilton! You lie. When Hamilton knows what I know he will tear you limb from limb. You come here to frighten us with your threats—you! I spit upon you! Sie-e-te-wah, warriors, hear me; you know who I am; I travel with you on the war-trail; I go with you into battle. Now I speak with the straight tongue. You do not know this man, but I do. See; he dare not face me; watch him shrink back afraid. Well! there is reason."

"I fear you, Jules Lappin!"

"Ay! and with cause. Knew you ever the time I failed to pay my debts? Or break my vengeance? I have you now, and will crush the white-livered heart out of you with these hands. Listen, Shawnees, Miami, Ojibwas, while I tell you who this fellow is. Then give him to me—I ask no more."

He stopped, bent forward, his fingers clinched. The ring of Indians pressed aloft, but the old chief waved them back, standing motionless.

"Speak, Englishman," he said with dignity, "we will hear."

Lappin half turned to face them, one hand gripping the knife at his belt. Like a white ghost mademoiselle slipped silently in between the two men. I saw it all over the brown barrel of my rifle, my heart throbbing fiercely.

"He is a renegade, a traitor," and Lappin's hand pointed at the man he accused, "the uniform he wears is his. How do I know? Because he fought me under the wings on the island; because he was in the cabin with the others. This is the man who was left for dead, who escaped. Do you recognize him now?"

I saw the red flicker, and heard the scream of voices.

"Ay! you do; and the woman, the Wyandot squaw, helped him. I said so before; now we have the proof. You drove her out, afraid to treat her as an enemy, and she goes to him, thinking his uniform will frighten you into sparing the hunter from torture. She brings him here to threaten you with what England will do. What say you, Shawnees, to the dog?"

The voices burst into a wild yell that seemed to split the night, but the fur trader flung up his hand.

"Back all of you!" he roared savagely. "I claim this man as mine! Who has better right? I'll throttle the life out of him with my bare hands before you all. Have your warriors give us space, Sie-e-te-wah!"

The chief of the Shawnees, his eyes blazing under tangled hair, uplifted his arms.

"Tis the white man's right," he ordered grimly. "I have spoken."

I drew in my breath deeply, yet what could I do? The rifle trembled in my grasp, but I dare not use it. The unfortunate Englishman stood in my place, was mistaken for me, but if I revealed myself it could serve no end—would only leave me helpless to aid the girl. I could not think of him at that moment, but only of her.

It was all the work of an instant. Lappin whirled on his victim, flinging his gun to the ground.

"Face me, you cur, you spy!" he shouted. "Come out from behind that squaw. You got me once when my foot slipped. Let's see what you can do now. What! you won't! Well, you will!"

He thrust Rene back, hurling her with one sweep of his arm into the crowding ranks of warriors, one of whom clutched her as she fell. Then he struck the shrinking, startled Englishman a vicious blow in the face.

CHAPTER XIX.

In the Hands of Savages.

I saw the red welt on the white cheek left by the fur trader's rough hand, his arms flung up, a sudden passing of anger darkening his eyes. This was more than flesh and blood could stand, and not retaliate. Wild rage usurped the place of courage; his lips snarled like a cornered wolf; he had forgotten all but hate. It was not a man, but a maddened animal who crouched for a spring.

"Fight you! I will! Yes, to the death," he snapped out hotly. "But you lie when you say I fought you before; when you say I was in the cabin—you lie, you dog of a white savage—you lie!"

"Messieurs, it is a mistake," I caught the girl's protesting voice in the hush. "It was not—"

"A lie, hey!" Lappin broke in crazed with rage. "What am I—blind? I saw you, you hound, with my own eyes. Shut the squaw up. Oh! you will; then have it now!"

They met like two enraged bucks in the forest, clutched at each other in blind, deadly battle. They were big men, evenly matched, fired with hatred. Never did I witness such fighting, such mad barbarism, the ferocity of which stopped at nothing. The soldier I knew was unarmed, but a knife flashed at Lappin's belt. Either he forgot it, or in his rage he dared to use the steel. Oh! how they fought—like two cats, snarling and snapping, throttling each other, occasionally an arm breaking free to send a clinched fist crashing into an exposed face. Once the soldier went down to his knees, and Lappin kicked him, only to be gripped himself and flung headlong. But they were up together, bleeding both, panting for breath, clothes half ripped off their bodies, cursing fiercely, as they rushed at each other once more.

Merciful Mother! What a sight that was! I, a soldier, and border-bred, hid my face in my arms—and yet I looked and saw. The very ferocity of it was a fascinating horror—the black, black night above, around; the forests shutting them in; the howling dogs snapping at their heels; the red glare of fire, and that ring of yelping savages, dancing back and forth to give the combatants room. Rene had disappeared—forced back into the half-crazed mass, as the savages surged forward; of Brady I caught no glimpse. That was no scene to ever forget, to blot out with passing years. The wild savagery of it burned in on the brain; those dark faces, with wild eyes and dangling hair; the waving arms, and leaping bodies, the gleam of weapons tossed aloft, the jangle and din of excited voices in jargon of unknown tongues. How the red flames danced over them all, now in shadow, now in glare of light, making them appear fiends incarnate. And those two battling in the midst, huge men in death grapple, fighting as tigers fight—remorseless, merciless; tearing each other's flesh, battering each other's faces, gripping, clutching, straining in effort at mastery. Again and again they crunched into the crowd, reeling from blows, or hurled back by sheer strength of muscle; they rolled forth curses, staggered with weakness. I saw Lappin drive his head into his opponent's stomach as though it were a butter-knife; I saw the soldier sink his teeth into the renegade's hand, as if he were a mad dog. Thus then the brute reached down and fumbled for his knife—found it, and, with one hoarse cry of triumph, sent the bright blade home. Twice he struck, and they went staggering down together, locked in each other's arms, the soldier dead ere he struck the ground.

It was headlong then, followed by a breathless hush as Sie-e-te-wah pressed forward with uplifted arms. Two warriors lifted Lappin to his feet, and, as his gripping hand plucked out the knife from the wound, I saw the gush of blood crimsoning the dead man's side. An instant the victor stood glaring down, reeling in weakness, upheld by others. Then he laughed, waving the dripping blade.

"Ah! good!" he cried. "There is one more recruit for hell. Bring me the girl here. 'Tis time she had her lesson also."

They brought her forward, a red brave grasping either arm. I caught sight of her face, white, drawn, but not with fear, and sighted my rifle across the log at the white ruffian's breast. With clinched lips I lay, finger to trigger. Yet I waited—thank God, I waited. I know not what restrained me, only it was no fear of consequences to myself. It must have been the expression of the woman's uplifted face, the quick glance she cast about, as though in silent warning to me. I took it as a signal, a message of restraint. The fur trader, burly and brutal, still panting for breath, yet able to stand alone now, and conscious of his victory, thrust his reeking knife back into his belt with a coarse laugh.

"How do you like that, you Wyandot squaw?" he asked, leering down into her face.

"When you have these men release my arms I will answer you," she returned quietly.

"Oh, you will, hey! You'll be glad enough to talk before I am through. Let go of her there—yes; that's what I mean. Now look here—there lies your English officer. He's paid the price of being a fool. Look at him; are you ready to speak now?"

"He was nothing to me," she said slowly, "nothing. But he fought a man's fight, and was killed by cowardly treachery."

"What! You squaw, you dare—"

"Of course I dare. Do you suppose I fear you, Jules Lappin, or your gang of outlaws?" he voice scornful. "Why,

I challenge you to lay hand on me. You know who I am; you have eaten in the tepee of my father. I know who you are, and I despise you. You call me a Wyandot squaw; threaten what you will do; point me to this dead man whom you have murdered. Why? To frighten me—me? Very well, I'll answer you. I am a Wyandot; I am Running Water; but in my veins flows also the best blood of France. Mine is not a race of cowards and murderers, thieves and traders; my ancestors were soldiers and men. And you think I am afraid of you—you cur of the woods; afraid of you! Touch me, Jules Lappin, if you dare; I challenge you. Come, I wait for you to lay hand on me."

He stared at her sullenly, angry enough, yet with the bullying look gone from his mottled face. Something about the girl—her sharp words, her cool defiance—had left him uncertain.

"More than that, Jules Lappin," she went on passionately, "you are going to pay for all this," and she pointed down at the dead body, "pay for it, do you understand! That man was what he claimed to be—an aide to Hamilton. England pays her debts, Monsieur Lappin. Ay, and so do the Wyandots; have you forgotten that so soon? Have you forgotten what befell the Frenchman, Philippe Bridau? Have you blotted from memory already the fate of Michael Coad? You were in our village when the chiefs of the Wyandots dealt out justice to these renegades. Answer me!"

The cool boldness of her words stunned the fellow. I could see him glance about into the dark woods, and then at the faces of the savages pressing about them. Few among them understood what was said, and their gestures, the fierce expression of their eyes, gave the renegade courage. He had already gone too far for retreat; his only chance now was to proceed—to browbeat this girl, frighten her, and trust to the wilderness for a hiding place.

"Stand aside, all of you; get back and give us room, you red scum!" he roared, his face increasing as he gave it vent in words. "Well, I've heard you talk all of it, you breed, and that's what I am for your threats," and he snarled at the savages in her face. As she stood silent, motionless, looking straight at him with scorn unutterable in her eyes, the brute clinched his red fist, stepping forward as if he would strike.

"Curse you! I'm a mind to let you have some of the same medicine I gave him. You'll laugh at Jules Lappin, will you? Oh, he! but I know a better way than that to make you cry. By all the gods, we'll roast that Yankee friend of yours to a turn, and you'll stand by and watch. That'll fetch the two of you to your senses. Here, Shawnees, two of you come here. Pick up this carrion, and throw it out of the way, over there in the edge of the wood. We'll want this place presently. Sie-e-te-wah!"

"The chief is here," with dignity. "Twas your vote that the hunter die by torture?"

"It was so spoken."

"Then he shall—to spite this squaw of a Wyandot, if for no better reason. Bid your warriors tie the dog up."

For the moment, in the confusion, the noise and rushing back and forth of figures dimly seen in the red light, I lost sense of what was being done. There was a babel of yells, a wild mingling of half-naked forms dancing about through the shadows. Those whose identity I could comprehend had been swallowed up by the rush of bodies. Occasionally Lappin's voice sounded above the din, as he cursed out some order. Then, forth from the surging, excited mass of savages, two braves came directly toward where I lay concealed, staggering under the weight of Hayward's dead body. I drew back my rifle, sinking lower behind the rotten log. The weight of the dead man caused them to shuffle forward, grunting to each other, glad enough to be rid of the burden. In the first dark shadow they let go, flinging him down against the very log behind which I lay, holding my breath in fear.

Even as I gazed with eyes of horror, my mind a chaos, every nerve throbbing in physical pain, there came to me the one hope, the one chance for me to meet alone the situation.

CHAPTER XX.

The Ghost of the Lieutenant.

With eyes on those figures blotting out the fire, their discordant yelling deadening all other sound, their whole attention centered now on savage vengeance, crept over the log, and crouched low beside the motionless body. Ugh! but I dreaded to touch it, to feel the awfulness of clammy flesh. As the upturned face, with staring dead eyes, revealed indistinctly by the red glimmer, met my gaze, it was like looking into my own. For an instant it seemed as if I stared down at myself, bent above my own insensate body. A shudder ran through me, my hands shaking as with palsy. Yet I rallied, crushing back the benumbing horror of that vision, as the hateful voice of Lappin rose above the din.

Recklessly I stripped the red jacket from the body, ripped in the struggle with Lappin, and showing clearly the rent made by the knife, and crawled back over the log, to put it on. Beyond my cover, not a dozen feet away, was a shallow ravine, and the light streaming through tree branches, fell upon a clay bank, gleaming a yellowish white. I reached it on hands and knees, streaking my face with moist clay, until it must have been ghastly, and plastering even more on my hair in horrible representation of the scalped victim.

Still unsatisfied, yet knowing of nothing else I could add, and warned by the shouts that I must act without delay, I stole forward to the edge of the wood, pausing there a moment to muster my courage, and take one last glance at the scene revealed by the firelight. All the center of the opening seemed alive with Indians crowding forward about the prisoner, who stood bound to a stump, facing me. Other savages were running swiftly back and forth bearing armfuls of dried wood, which were cast down at Brady's feet, the mass already rising above his knees. Excitement was evidenced in shouts, and wild cries, in frenzied leaping, dancing, and mad gesticulation. The Shawnee chief stood silent, with folded arms, but burning eyes, while Lappin grasped mademoiselle's shoulder, holding her to place in the front rank of those red demons, his voice shouting forth orders, or taunting the motionless hunter, who made no reply. Rene was upon her knees, her face hidden, but I could see the white gleam of the crucifix as she held it forth in the glow of light. Brady's face was not toward me, nor revealed clearly by the fire, yet he held his head erect, his eyes roving over the devilish faces. The wounded jaw was bound about with a strip of bloody rag. Without speaking, I yet seemed to me he mocked them. Once he twisted in his bonds, and glared at her as if he would utter some word, but changed his mind, and, for the first time, a look of pain swept into his face. Lappin saw the effort, called out some foul insult, and a warrior sprang forward, striking the defenseless man across the lips, and driving his head back against the stump.

"I'm a Mind to Let You Have Some of the Same Medicine I Gave Him."

The vicious act drove me mad, and I stepped forth into the open, flinging my gun down in the underbrush. No eye in all that swarm was turned my way. In silence I moved forward until I was within a few yards of the struggling mass. Then I stopped, full in the red glare of fire, my arms uplifted, and gave utterance to a deep, sepulchral groan. God alone knows how awful was the apparition. To them, in startled horror, I was the dead man, standing there with ghastly face, and arms outstretched, my appearance rendered more terrible by the fitful gleam of fire, revealing features and form, glowing on torn red jacket, and head slashed by scalping knife, behind me the night and the black woods. No doubt it was a sight to bring fear to any heart, but to those murderers, their minds poisoned by superstition, it brought panic—a terror too terrible to resist. They knew me in the instant; I was the spirit of the dead; I had come back for vengeance; with clammy hands I was clutching for them; with sightless eyes I was seeking them out. There was one yell, breathing forth the terror of their souls; I saw eyes, wild with horror, staring at me; I saw men run and fall, scramble to their feet, and run again; I saw leaping bodies fight like fiends in an effort to get free. Sie-e-te-wah, struck by the rush, shrieked like a woman, stared toward me from where he lay on the ground, found his feet and ran. I caught glimpse of Rene's face uplifted, the cross still before her eyes; of Lappin, hurled over by the rush, trampled into the earth by flying feet, finally regain his knees, his face white as death, as he stared back toward me with pretruding eyes.

Again I groaned, the unearthly sound rising even above the din, seemingly echoed by the great forest and flung back to earth again by the black curtain overhead. Ay! it was an eerie sound! It even made my own flesh creep. Crazed by the terror of it, panic-stricken by the fears of others, the fur trader leaped to his feet, flung forward his rifle and fired. The ball sang past my ear, and I walked straight toward him, my ghastly face exposed to the fire, my hands reaching out in blind clutching. With one yell, piercing, the yelp of a frightened wolf, he turned and dashed for the woods, starting back over his shoulder even as he crashed headlong into the underbrush. For fear they might pause when once under cover—the first spasm of terror gone—I ran forward to the forest edge, giving utterance to another groan to spur them on. But this was not needed—terror, awful terror had struck into their very souls.

A young man dining in a restaurant one day ordered some noodle soup, and while eating it came across a needle. Immediately upon the discovery he called the waiter over and said, "Look here, waiter, I found this here needle in my soup."

The waiter, with a surprised look, glanced at the needle and then picked up the menu card, looked up and down the printed columns a moment, then a broad smile crept over his face and he exclaimed: "You see, sah, dat—dat am jest a typographical error—dat—dat should am bith a noodle."—National Food Magazine.

SKIN TROUBLE ON HANDS

Cassville, Mo.—"My hands and feet were affected with a trouble similar to ringworm for a number of years. It first appeared as tiny clear blisters and in places the blisters were so close together that they almost formed one large blister. The skin was rough and cracked open. At times it was so bad that it disabled me; my hands became so sore that I could scarcely use them."

"I used every remedy that I could find but nothing seemed to do any good. Finally I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I then got a case of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment which completely rid me of the trouble." (Signed) Ray Bryant, Mar. 14, 1914.

The "Bauer" Is Austria's Backbone.

The most interesting of Austrian types and the backbone of the dual monarchy is the "Bauer." In social rank he occupies somewhat the same position as the old English yeoman, farming his own land, and in many cases enjoying a far more substantial fortune than the nobility. The "Bauer" has a strict social code of his own, mixing neither with the laborers on one hand nor the aristocracy on the other, is apparently quite content with his lot, and takes pride in his ability to provide almost all the necessities of life from the productions of his own land, even, in many cases, growing the flax from which his womenfolk weave all the household clothing.—London Chronicle.

Titles and Taxes in Spain.

In Spain titles of nobility are taxed in the same way as houses or land. Moreover, each separate title is taxed, and for this reason certain members of ancient families in which a number of titles have accumulated drop some in order to save money. Owing to the system long prevalent in Spain by which women of noble birth transmit their title not only to their children but to their husbands—so that a plebeian marrying a duchess becomes a duke, Spanish titles rarely become extinct unless the holders deliberately discard them.

LEARNING THINGS We Are All in the Apprentice Class.

When a simple change of diet brings back health and happiness the story is briefly told. A lady of Springfield, Ill., says:

"After being afflicted for years with nervousness and heart trouble, I received a shock four years ago that left me in such a condition that my life was despaired of."

"I got no relief from doctors nor from the numberless heart and nerve remedies I tried, because I didn't know that coffee was daily putting me back more than the doctors could put me ahead."

"Finally at the suggestion of a friend I left off coffee and began the use of Postum, and against my expectations I gradually improved in health until for the past 6 or 8 months I have been entirely free from nervousness and those terrible sinking, weakening spells of heart trouble."

"My troubles all came from the use of coffee which I had drunk from childhood and yet they disappeared when I quit coffee and took up the use of Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Many people marvel at the effects of leaving off coffee and drinking Postum, but there is nothing marvelous about it—only common sense. Coffee is a destroyer—Postum is a builder. That's the reason.

Look in pkgs. for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville." Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

CONCERNING DR. GODDARD

The above is a picture of Wisconsin's leading specialist, who treats chronic diseases, without resorting to surgery or the knife.

For many years past, in certain troubles such as rupture, chronic appendicitis, gall stones, gleet and many diseases peculiar to women, it was thought necessary to resort to surgery.

But in the past few years such brilliant men in the profession as Dr. Metchnikoff of Paris, the leading physician of the world today, Dr. McEwen, professor of medicine at the university of Edinburgh, Scotland, Sir Henry Burdette of England, and Dr. Page of Boston, Mass., not to mention many others of great prominence, have become firmly convinced they have proven that many of these cases can be more successfully, better and more safely cured by modern treatment than by the knife.

And it is along these same advanced lines that Dr. Goddard has had his remarkable success in treating chronic diseases without operation.

The doctor comes to Stevens Point every four weeks and freely grants consultation to all who may call on him at Hotel Jacobs.

He comes to us highly recommended, and has had many of our people as his patients, whom he has cured after they had tried many other physicians without relief. In talking with the writer recently the doctor said: "The tendency among the medical profession in the past has been to put the knife into everybody on the slightest pretext, but with the great advancements that have been made in the science of medicine in the last few years, many of the broad minded surgeons have seen the error of their ways with the result, that they are not resorting to surgical operations in one quarter the cases that they formerly did. I can truthfully say, and can prove it that 80 per cent of the so-called cases of chronic appendicitis that have submitted to operations in the past could have been cured much better by our modern methods of treatment, thus saving the patient all the suffering and danger, not to mention the expense that accompanies surgical operations, have proven the truth of this statement right here in your community and should like to show you scores of letters, from grateful patients whom I cured to prove it to you also."

The doctor has lately written a little book that is intensely interesting, entitled, "Modern Methods of Treating Chronic Diseases Without Surgical Operation," which he will gladly send to anyone absolutely free of charge on request.

Anyone suffering from any chronic condition, especially if it has failed to respond to the ordinary treatment, should certainly avail themselves to the opportunity to consult Dr. Goddard on his next visit to Stevens Point, on Thursday, Oct. 1st, at Hotel Jacobs, or write to him at his permanent address, 121 Wisconsin street, Milwaukee, Wis. Hours 9 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. Send for his little book anyway. It will greatly interest you.

BUSINESS MEN'S MEETING

Interesting Talk by Paul F. Voelker of Madison—May Have Chautauqua Here Next July.

One of the best talks ever given before the Stevens Point Business Men's Association was delivered last Thursday evening by Prof. Paul F. Voelker of the university extension department at Madison, his subject being "Wheels in the Head."

About 75 local business and professional men enjoyed a banquet served by ladies of St. Paul's M. E. church. President Hanna presided at the session which followed and suggested that Jas. Meehan of Milwaukee be made an honorary member of the organization. A motion to this effect was carried by unanimous vote, for which distinction the worthy former resident of Portage county extended his hearty thanks.

The high cost of living has extended to the church societies which furnish the monthly suppers and they ask a 20 per cent increase, raising their price per plate from 40 to 50 cents. Mr. Hanna therefore urged that all delinquents pay the annual dues of $1.00 and that a renewed effort be made to increase the membership.

Secretary Orthman read a portion of the correspondence he had received during the summer. A Chicago concern wishes to establish a factory employing 100 men and require that the building contain at least 10,000 feet of floor space and be steam heated. Such a building is available here and correspondence which may bring results is now in progress. Letters were received from several other parties asking information on various lines, all of which are getting desired attention.

Mr. Orthman further reported that the state association of commercial executives will hold their annual convention the last week in October, opening the 29th and continuing three days. Officers of commercial clubs in various Wisconsin cities are members of this organization. An effort is being made to bring the convention to Stevens Point, and to further the good work along, a formal invitation was extended by the Business Men's Association. M. E. Bruce offered the free use of the Gem theatre for afternoon meetings if the executives come here.

Mr. Voelker was introduced by the president in his usual happy manner. The speaker, in opening his remarks, complimented the local association on their spirit of loyalty and good fellowship. He would talk, he said, about the greatest thing in the world—the human brain. We all have "wheels" in our heads; everybody is crazy—sometimes. The only difference between those in and outside the asylum is that we haven't been found out yet. The perfectly sane man would have wheels so properly adjusted that they would not work out of harmony. Some folks think on a straight line, some on zigzag lines and others on wobbly lines. We all have the same number of wheels—five—those of analysis, association, synthesis, assimilation and logic. The speaker then drew a word picture of the mistakes of preception caused by a failure to analyse, and also referred at some length to the mistakes of memory, imagination and judgment, interspersing his remarks with trite stories or relating personal observations. An old man with no education has better judgment than the young man who may be highly educated. The only trouble with most of us is that we don't work our mental wheels hard enough. Behind every wrong act, there is a wrong thought; behind every right act, there is a right thought. The man of sound judgment has wheels, but they run right.

Following Prof. Voelker's talk, the question of organizing a chautauqua in Stevens Point was brought up, the week's entertainment to be given next July under university extension auspices at a cost of $1,000. This includes the furnishing of two tents, 50x110 and 24x28 feet, a moving picture outfit, a health exhibit, and all the talent. The city or community will be required to furnish the grounds, a piano and the necessary electricity. The tentative program provides for children's hour between 10 and 12 a. m., a concert each afternoon, and a lecture and motion picture exhibit in the evenings. High class talent will be employed.

Upon suggestion of Pres. Hanna a committee composed of J. W. Dunagan, M. M. Ames, M. E. Bruce, E. P. Trautman, John F. Sims, J. J. Northington, A. R. Week and H. C. Snyder was appointed, with power to close arrangements.

Upon motion of Mr. Snyder, a vote of thanks was extended Mr. Voelker and he was made an honorary member of the local association. The thanks of the body were also given to the High school orchestra, which furnished delightful music during the banquet.

John F. Sims, president of the local Normal, stated that there are 14,000 teachers in Wisconsin who are members of the various associations, one of which will meet in annual convention at Merrill in October. These gatherings are of advantage to a city in a financial way, but they bring more than money in the form of character, scholarship and high ideals. Mr. Sims suggested that an effort be made to secure the 1915 gathering for Stevens Point, and on motion of Rev. Stemen an invitation was extended by unanimous vote. The meeting then adjourned.

IN SERIOUS TROUBLE

"Junior" Parmeter Flies High for Months, but Finally Arrested and Jailed at Forest City, Arkansas.

"Junior" Parmeter, by which first name he is known in this city, the place of his birth, and who has led an unenviable life for several years, some of the time being behind prison bars, has reached the end of his rope for the present at least, having been arrested in Arkansas last week and the story is told in the following article, taken from a Chicago paper, but the statement that Parmeter is a lawyer, having been admitted to the bar, is incorrect.

"A 4,000 mile motor trip, started on nothing and financed by checks worth nothing, not to mention a sea junket from New York to Paris and return, ended in Forest City, Arkansas. It ended because the police of that place arrested Oren Parmeter, alias 'Jack Palmer,' after the William J. Burns International Detective Agency had followed up a $10,000 trail of fraudulent checks reaching from Tehachapi, Cal., to New York, to France and back to the United States again.

"According to C. W. Tobie, Chicago manager of the criminal department of the detective agency, Parmeter cashed two checks for $2,000 each in Paris, made payable to himself and signed 'J. P. Morgan & Co., New York city.'

"Before leaving Tehachapi Parmeter was joined by a young woman who has been with him during his entire international 'joy ride,' said Tobie. He is a young lawyer and was educated in Stevens Point, Wis., admitted to the Wisconsin bar and practiced for some time. On his trip across the United States he posed as an attorney of Albion, Ind., and drew all his checks on the Albion State bank.

"Parmeter and a young woman left Tehachapi early in June in a small roadster. Soon the bad checks began to come in and a warrant was taken out in Bakersfield, Cal. His route led to Portland, Oregon, then to Salt Lake City, through Montana and the Dakotas to St. Paul. Every day he'd put one over for $60 or $70.

"They went through Chicago on July 15, reached New York on the 27, and sailed for Paris the same day.

"Parmeter and his companion returned to New York about September 3d, and he bought a six cylinder automobile; the roadster had been disposed of. They started to return to California by the way of Florida. In Memphis, Tenn., Parmeter passed a check for $50 and we got into communication with Chief of Police William J. Hayes about the same time. He was arrested in his touring car and with a complete camping outfit."

STORIES OF THE ROAD

Riding on a Preacher's Ticket a Risky Business as Told by One Who Talks From Experience.

At one time I had charge of a planing mill and shipping department in a Wisconsin town. I had been there but a short time and was pretty lonesome. I came there from Duluth and didn't know what to do with myself. To kill time I got quite chummy with the depot agent. One evening I was up there (it was about the end of the month) and he and I were alone in the office. He got me to help him check up his report on tickets and I was calling off the numbers on the stubs while he wrote them down on his report.

Pretty soon I came to a package of preacher's half-fare tickets and I said to him, "What about my using one of these to go over to Eau Claire? I have a brother I haven't seen for several years. I'm going to take a lay-off one of these days and go up to visit him."

He said, "Do you think you can make it work?"

I said, "I haven't been out of town since I came here; the passenger conductors won't know me any more."

He said, "All right."

So, a short time after that I got a vacation of two or three days and went down one morning. "I want that half-fare ticket," I said. "I'm going to Eau Claire."

"All right," was the reply; "but if they make any fuss about it, don't have any scrap with them and don't get me into trouble."

I said, "Don't worry about that. I'll pay two fares before I'd get you into a scrape."

So I got on the train and had just got seated when who should come into the train but a conductor who wouldn't haul his mother a mile unless she was properly ticketed. He knew me from seeing me working around the depot slipping cars, giving orders for switching and so on, but I didn't suppose he knew me. I got the biggest look the newsy had and was looking as sanctimonious as I could when the conductor came along. "Tickets, please!" I passed out my half-fare ticket. He looked at the ticket and he looked at me and said: "Elder, I would like to see your permit."

Now the depot agent had never said a word to me about a permit and I was perfectly ignorant that a preacher had to have a permit to travel on a half-fare ticket. I was considerably frustrated and hemmed and hawed a little.

At last I said, "Well, Mr. Conductor, the station agent knowing me so well, I guess he didn't deem it necessary and didn't ask me for it, and in fact I haven't got it with me."

He said, "Oh pshaw, you know mighty well that you have no business riding on that ticket and that darned fool had no business giving it to you. It's a right, I'll haul you to Abbotford, but don't ever try that on me again."

That was as far as he was going. He punched the ticket and handed it back to me. As the ticket was for Eau Claire I had to change cars at Abbotford so I thought with his punch on the ticket it was clear sailing to Eau Claire. After I got to Abbotford and had changed cars I thought I would wait for my smoke till I got rid of the conductor, so I stayed in the day coach. Pretty soon a big red-headed conductor came along picking up tickets. I passed up my preacher's ticket and he just exploded. He just laughed.

"So you're that bogus preacher from Stevens Point, huh? Well, that's all right, pal. If old Barrows hauled you to Abbotford on that I'll haul you to — I'm going there anyway."

I said, "Sir," trying to hold my dignity and still being afraid of getting the station agent into trouble; but he just laughed it off and took the ticket and went on. There was a wreck on the road at a station east of Chippewa and the conductor got orders at Boyd to let the passengers have supper there and to run on to Bateman and wait for orders. At Bateman he got orders to take his engine and his crew and go forward to help the wreckers, leaving his train at Bateman.

In the meantime we got mixed up in a little game of penny-ante—the newsy, a couple of traveling men and myself. The newsy said he didn't like to play in the smoker where people could see us so we went to the baggage car ahead. It was one of those baggage cars with a compartment in the center for mail and a passage on the side. We used the conductor's big chest for a table and kegs and boxes for seats. We had a real nice little lively game and I guess it was about the first pot that I won of any account. I was just raking it in when the conductor came along.

Holding the lantern against me he said, "You're a pretty preacher, you are."

So the game was up. I gave him a few cigars and we visited there. As Chippewa was as far as he was going he prevailed on me to stay over at Chippewa that night and next day we would go to Eau Claire. We had a pretty good time, but it certainly taught me not to use any preacher's tickets again. He is still working as a conductor and every time he sees me he dubs me "Elder."

Irrigated Homesteads.

The United States Reclamation Service announces the availability for homestead entry of large number of desirable irrigated farms of 40 to 80 acres in the well known Shoshone Project, Wyoming. Delightful climate and scenic surroundings, ample water supply, fertile soil, good transportation facilities and social conditions. Three years' residence required and settlers are given under recent act of congress, twenty years time without interest to pay government for permanent water right. Homesteaders who act in good faith and who are willing to work and to learn and have sufficient funds to commence farming operations, will be amply rewarded.

Was a Painful Accident.

T. Olsen, the well known wood dealer, whose home is at the corner of Mill and Water streets, met with a painful and most distressing accident on Friday. He was at the Week Lumber Co. mill and had just finished loading. The wagon got stuck in the mud, and to assist in getting it out, Mr. Olsen took hold of the spokes of one of the wheels. When the vehicle started to move, one of his hands became caught in such a manner that the flesh was torn from the back down to the bone and it required several stitches to put the skin back in place. Mr. Olsen has been suffering much pain, but is doing as well as the seriousness of the accident will permit.

The Proof is Here the Same as Elsewhere.

For those who seek relief from kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder ills, Doan's Kidney Pills offer hope of relief and the proof is here in Stevens Point, the same as everywhere. Stevens Point people have used Doan's and Stevens Point people recommend Doan's, the kidney remedy used in America for fifty years. Why suffer? Why run the risk of dangerous kidney ills—fatal Bright's disease. Here's Stevens Point proof. Investigate it.

Charles H. Curtis, 711 Church street, Stevens Point, says: "I suffered from pain in the small of my back and could hardly get around. It was all I could do to get out of bed and dress myself in the morning. I hardly knew what ailed me, but finally concluded that my kidneys were weak. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills from Taylor's drug store and they acted promptly in relieving me. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills off and on since and have always found that they do their work in a satisfactory way. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills before, and I have since heard of others whom they have helped greatly."

Stevens Point, Wis., June 8, 1914. Regular monthly meeting of the

"Curing Drug Habit."—"If a drug fiend wants to quit quickly, let him commit a crime that will send him to Waupun," half-jokingly remarked D. Rock Sleyster, a former physician of the state prison. Most experienced physicians hold that sudden and complete removal of a habit forming drug is dangerous to the victim. In ordinary circumstances it undoubtedly is. At Waupun, however, it has been the invariable practice of Dr. Sleyster, and he never saw even so much as an alarming symptom. Not once did he give an ounce of whiskey or a fractional grain dose of cocaine, morphine or other similar drug.

His explanation is interesting and suggestive. A drug habit is mostly a mental habit. So long as the patient thinks he requires a drug, he does. In ordinary institutions, particularly in private hospitals and sanatoria, he expects some consideration. But Waupun isn't an ordinary medical institution. The first step in treatment begins when the outside gate clangs shut. The prisoner knows that with that gong-like sound the death knell has been sounded upon his ordinary "rights."

"We understand criminal nature, and convicts know that we understand them. They quit trying to coax us with whining that enlists sympathy outside. At the same time they quit sympathizing with themselves. It's wonderful how that shot bolt in the prison gate stiffens up their spinal columns."

"When they are told they can't have drugs and whiskey, they know that they can't. Knowing that they can't, they adapt themselves to the change and accept the rule."

"The ordinary drug fiend may collapse upon sudden complete withdrawal of the drug. The collapse may be real and most alarming to the physician. There has never been a collapse at Waupun from the same cause."

"It's interesting to observe how many of our inmates arrive in an intoxicated condition. The officers bringing them are frequently most sympathetic and cannot resist the appeals for 'just one more drink' before they are shut off for years or for life. If the same brand of sympathy were allowed to rule inside the institution Waupun would be in a fine mess."

Repeal the Primary.

The political wisdom of having a nomination convention to frame a platform and select candidates is most emphatically confirmed by the late primary election in Wisconsin. On both sides, Democratic and Republican, only those candidates for governor and minor offices in the main were successful before their respective voters who came to the ballot box with a nominating convention behind them. Such of course appeals to the voters because it clarifies and simplifies matters and has something definite in its appeal to their understanding. Ever since the primary became the rule of our political action we have been without form and void of substantial good government in Wisconsin. Dozens of states have been misled by the so-called Wisconsin idea, and as sure as fate, unless warned in time, they will fall into the same grievous mistakes that our people have made.

It is a plausible specious theory, dangerous to the well being of the commonwealth because it ignores the safety and conservatism of a truly representative method of doing things. In a word, it is democracy running away with itself into disorder and confusion. It destroys coherent party action because it destroys the representative voice of the people. Under its domination there is no chance for the voter to manifest his opinion upon any question at issue. It is not real American democracy which works out its problems through the wisdom of selected leaders. On the contrary, it becomes nothing but a form of confused individualism. "Every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost." It is under such a condition of affairs that the scheming demagogue makes his way. Such men meet much greater difficulty in securing place and power when they have to run the gauntlet of a nominating convention composed of the wisest and best citizens in a party.

The Wisconsin primary was put forth by LaFollette under the specious claim that it was taking nominations and platforms back to the people, the true source of authority. But it has proved a Pandora box out of which has come a troop of political ills that have cost the taxpayers of the state most sorely. The proposed amendments to the Constitution in favor of the initiative, the referendum, and the recall are spawn of the same breed. All these schemes of so-called Progressivism are born of socialism. They are destructive of a Republican form of government, and are full of bad and not good results.—Jefferson County Union.

Important to all Women Readers of This Paper.

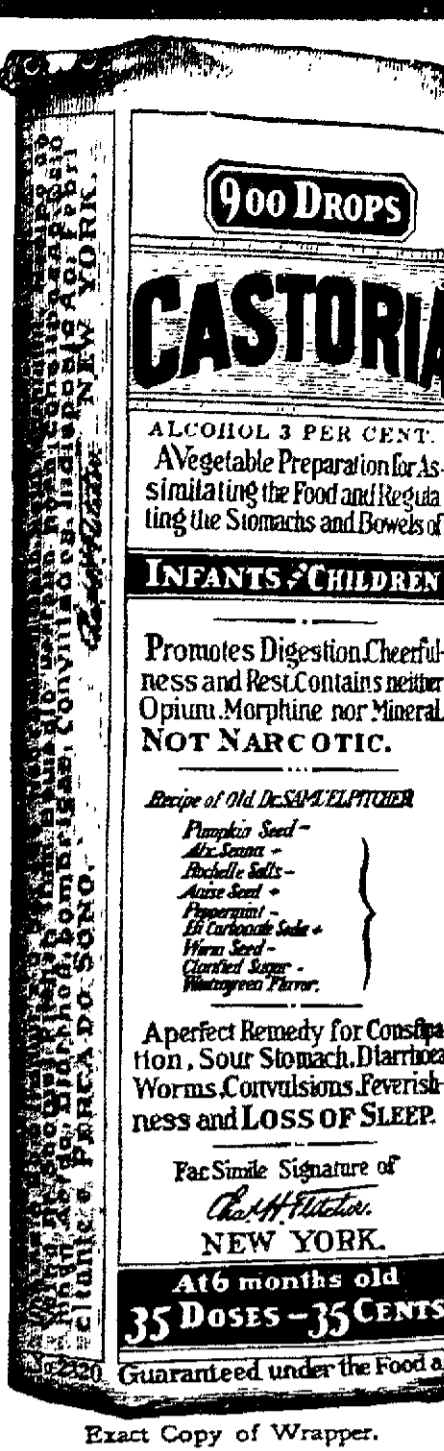

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real health and curative value, should be a blessing to thousands of nervous, over-worked women.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., may receive sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase the regular fifty cent and one dollar size bottles at all drug stores.

Women to Look Old-Fashioned.

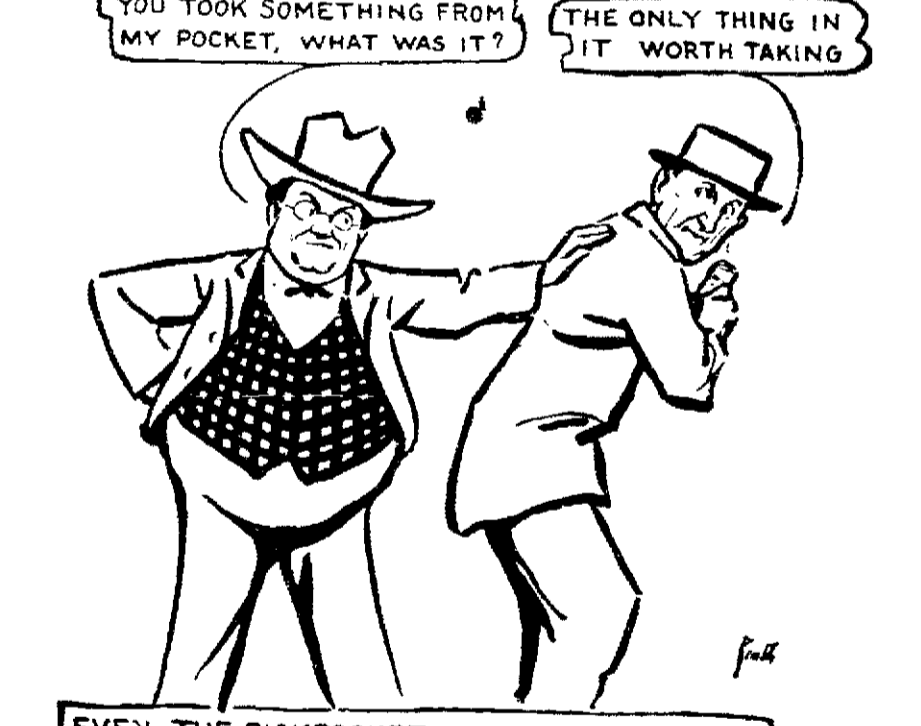

Grace Margaret Gould, fashion editor of the Woman's Home Companion, writes in the October issue of that periodical an article entitled "Fashion Takes Backward Steps," in which she tells what these steps are and what they mean. Following is an extract:

"To be called old-fashioned—my, how it hurts! Yet to look old-fashioned is just the way you must look this autumn if you are going to have any pretense to style at all."

"We talk of fashions as new, yet in reality they are old. This autumn and winter we will wear again the quaint styles of a half century ago. The modes of the fifties, the sixties and the eighties will be the favored modes. We are to copy what the girls then—who are our grandmothers now—wore."

"We are going to billow, to frill, and to drape. We are going to wear prim, dainty basques, but with just a little of the primness taken out. We are going to wrap ourselves in capes, circulars and old-timey mantilla. And looming up ahead, perhaps not as far as we think, is the crinoline in all its ponderous horror."

Little pig scab takes the lives of thousands after all your trouble and cost of wintering the sows. Yet this scourge can be easily banished completely by proper care, saving the pigs and adding to the cash profit of your labor and feed.

YOU TOOK SOMETHING FROM MY POCKET, WHAT WAS IT?

THE ONLY THING IN IT WORTH TAKING

EVEN THE PICKPOCKET KNOWS THE VALUE OF THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW

YOU know, all tobacco users know what is the matter with ordinary chewing tobacco!

Everywhere men are saying to their friends that "Right-Cut" is the Real Tobacco Chew.

Pure, mellow, full-bodied tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

Chas. H. McCann and son, Roy, who are doing millwright work in a big paper mill at Oconto Falls, were at their home in this city a portion of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Harig and family of Fond du Lac visited here several days last week with his parents, Henry Harig and wife. Peter is a conductor on the Soo line.

Mrs. W. E. Teichert and Mr. Teichert's mother, who is visiting here from Detroit, went to Junction City this morning to spend a couple of days with Mrs. Wm. Arias.

Engineer Archie McNabb, who is employed in the Soo yards at Manitowoc, arrived in the city on Thursday last to spend a few days among friends and renew acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoffman were called to Chicago last Monday by the death of Mr. Hoffman's brother, Adolph Hoffman, aged about 70 years. The funeral took place yesterday.

E. C. Blisley went to Marshfield Monday afternoon for a stay of several days, and as he left a box of cigars for distribution among his local friends, there is a suspicion that he may not return alone.

Mrs. J. D. Garner of College Station, Texas, spent part of last week with her aunt, Mrs. A. J. Empey, on Dixon street. She left for Chicago on Saturday to visit a couple of days before returning to her home in the Lone Star state.

Milton Chapman, Soo line agent at Byron, Fond du Lac county, is enjoying a week's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Chapman. Milton was accompanied here by his wife and little daughter, who remained over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron McCann and little daughter, Jean, have moved to Ashland and are now nicely located on Second avenue in that city. Myron is a passenger brakeman on the Soo line and has his long "layover" at the northern terminus.

Mrs. Jane Finch of this city and her sister, Mrs. John Gardiner of Spencer, went to Oshkosh Tuesday morning for a few days' visit. Both ladies expect to leave here the middle of October for the west, to spend several months with their daughters in Idaho and Oregon.

The young man killed by a St. Paul train at Rudolph, about twelve miles west of this city, a couple of months ago and interred as Wm. Wallace, address unknown, was John Murphy, whose home was at Yorkshire, England. Murphy was a rover, about 25 years of age.

Daniel Sullivan and family moved here from Mosinee last Thursday and are now located in the brick block at the corner of Stronga avenue and Park street, a portion of which Mr. Sullivan has leased for saloon purposes. He had been a resident of Mosinee since boyhood and of late filled the dual position of village marshal and street commissioner. Geo. Parker, also recently of Mosinee, is employed as bartender.

Will Let Cottage Contracts.

President and Mrs. John F. Sims and Regent Geo. B. Nelson went to Milwaukee today to attend a meeting of Normal school regents. Among other business to be disposed of is the letting of contracts for two cottages to be erected just north of the local institution, and which will be used for practical housekeeping by domestic science students. Several of our builders have submitted proposals, as has also J. C. Cullen of Janesville, who is now erecting the big addition to the east end of the school.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Articles and Items of News that Appeared in the Columns of The Gazette, Quarter of a Century Ago Today.

A little son was born to Dr. and Mrs. Alcorn on Tuesday of last week.

Chief of Police Finch has been in Chicago on business for a couple of days.

Jas. and Frank Gilchrist are in the city visiting with their parents, W. H. Gilchrist and wife.

Within the past few days daughters have been born to Engineer Mel. Buck, Chas. H. Johnson and David Dorrance.

Mrs. Katherine Griffin died at the residence of her son, Martin Griffin, on Stronga avenue, last Friday morning, the 20th inst., aged 85 years.

J. R. Brinker, after spending the summer among relatives in Michigan, returned to the city the first of the week. Mrs. Brinker stopped at Appleton to visit for a couple of days among friends.

Rev. W. Henry Watts, pastor of the Episcopal church in this city during the past ten years, leaves on the 13th of October for Columbia, Mo., which place he expects to make his future home. His resignation here is due to the fact of ill health.

While tamping a blast at the J. E. Rogers stone quarry, on the west side of the river, shortly before noon on Saturday last, Dan Maddy met with a most lamentable accident. A premature discharge sent rock, powder and sand in all directions, knocking Dan to the ground and injuring him about the head and person quite badly.

At about 8 o'clock on Sunday morning last, Andrew Wilkowski, who lives near the boom house, accidentally sent a charge of shot into his person while hunting and expired a short time afterwards. He was standing upon a log, with his stomach against the barrel of his gun, while the stock of the gun was upon the log or ground when the accidental discharge took place. His brother, Stephen Wilkowski, L. P. Moen, Robert Campbell and Gaylord Macnish were also hunting in the same vicinity when the accident occurred. He was 23 years of age.

Gov. Glynn and Wilson.

With his characteristic gift of biting the nail on the head, Gov. Glynn, in his speech at Syracuse this week, gave verbal expression to a thought which of all others is undoubtedly the universal and dominant one in the American mind today. Said the governor:

"While Europe wages a war of desolation, America carries on a campaign of peaceful production. While the farms of Europe are deserted, the American farmer harvests his bountiful crops. While the industries of Europe falter and halt, the hum of wheels in America's factories makes music from the Atlantic to the Pacific. While the unfortunate millions across the ocean rush toward death and destruction, the manhood of America, thanks to the steadfastness, the diplomacy and the watchful waiting of Woodrow Wilson, dedicates itself to the task of saving the world from want and famine."

This country knows and acknowledges its debt of gratitude to the steadfastness, the equipoise the humanity of Woodrow Wilson.—Buffalo Times.

And it is said that Maine, one of the first states of the Union, has gone Democratic again, the Republican incumbent, Wm. T. Haines, having been defeated by Oakley T. Curtis. In the lower house of the state legislature, the Democrats gained four members and Republicans lost three. The Maine election is always regarded as an omen of the elections to follow in November throughout the country, for as Maine goes the other uncertain states will follow.

FOUND DEAD IN BED

Lorin H. Cowles, Who Made Stevens Point His Home for Some Years, Passed Away on Dakota Homestead.

Lorin H. Cowles, a former resident of Stevens Point, but who had resided in the west for a number of years, passed away very unexpectedly on his homestead near Rhame, N. D., on the 2d inst., in fact he was found dead in bed, having passed away during the night from heart failure and had been dead for several hours when his daughter, Mrs. Edith Slade, went to his room to call him for breakfast. Mr. Cowles lived on a homestead near Rhame, upon which he filed in 1908, and had returned from a trip to the south but a few weeks before his death.

The deceased gentleman was a native of Wisconsin, born at Baraboo, Sept. 3, 1852, and was therefore 62 years of age. He was a well educated man, having received his education at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, and taught school for years before coming to Stevens Point some twenty years ago. He was a genial, social gentleman, well liked by all who knew him, and the announcement of his death is received with regret. He is survived by his widow, three daughters and one son, the latter, Harry W. Cowles, having left here but a few weeks ago for Ravenna, Ohio, where he is employed by W. E. Ule.

LIVED GOOD LONG LIFE

Jas. McTigue, Pioneer of Portage County, Dies at Home on Dixon Street—Funeral Thursday Morning.

James McTigue, a resident of Portage county for 43 years and during the past seven years living at 217 Dixon street, answered the final summons at 10 o'clock last Monday night. He suffered a general breakdown just a week before, but remained conscious until almost the last moment.

A native of Ireland, Mr. McTigue was born in County Mayo 76 years ago last May. He emigrated to America in 1863 and for a few years lived in Michigan, then came to Stevens Point for a couple of years' stay.

At Hillsdale, Mich., in 1869, Mr. McTigue was married to Miss Mary Griffith.

They later went to Medford, where the now deceased gentleman filled the position of section foreman for the old Wisconsin Central. Buying a farm in Lanark, the family returned to Portage county and Mr. and Mrs. McTigue were continuous residents of that township until their return to Stevens Point in 1907.

Although well advanced in years Mr. McTigue was remarkably active, both physically and mentally, and it was ever a pleasure to meet and greet him. As a husband and father he was always kind and good, a tried and true man of worth and decency.

Eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. McTigue, of whom four are living, Mrs. J. P. Peterson of this city, Thos. McTigue of Minneapolis, Jas. Jr., of Lanark and Mrs. Geo. McGinley of Buena Vista.

Funeral services will be conducted at St. Stephen's church at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, requiem high mass being offered up by Revs. W. J. Rice, N. J. and J. E. Meagher, the latter of Lanark. Interment will be had in the parish cemetery. Mr. McTigue was a member of the Sacred Heart society connected with St. Stephen's congregation.

Public Library Notes.

The patrons of the library will be sorry to know that Miss Olin, assistant librarian, has resigned to take up work in other fields. Miss Iambia Wert has been appointed to succeed her, and is doing practice work in view of taking up the library work.

An attractive addition to the children's room is a large scrap book, in color, planned and arranged by Miss Olin.

Some new books especially useful to students in the continuation school and in the domestic science course in High and Normal schools, have been added to the shelves; also a few new books of fiction.

The students in manual training will find a number of books applying to their field of work, mechanical drawing, furniture making, etc. Following is a list of the new ones:

Weaver—Vocations for girls.
Hicks—Craft of hand-made rugs.
Jesup—Sewing book.
Butterick—Dressmaking.
Ford—Home laundry hints.
Judson—Cook book.
Backrose—Because of Jane.
Cooke—William and Bill.
Fedden—Spare room.
Dix—Mother's son.
Morse—On the road to Arden.

Orders From the Japanese.

Leo Gurney, the well known travel representative for paper mill machinery and supplies, is at his home near McDill for a short vacation. He travels for an Appleton concern and says they have recently received a large number of orders for wire screens, used in paper manufacturing, from Japan.

LADY RESIDENTS DIE

Mrs. Michael Rhoda and Mrs. Joseph Jakusch, Aged Residents of This City. Called to Eternal Rest.

MRS. MICHAEL RHODA.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rhoda passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jason Maunders, 302 Wayne street, at 12:30 Tuesday afternoon, aged 73 years. The deceased lady was the widow of the late Michael Rhoda, whose death occurred last February. She was born in Germany, Feb. 21, 1841, and came to this country with her family in 1876. They located in the town of Carson, which was their home for twenty years, coming to this city in 1900, and this had been their home ever since.

She was a most excellent lady, respected by all who knew her and many friends will be pained to learn of her death, following so soon after that of her husband. Two daughters, Mrs. A. O. Danielson of Appleton and Mrs. Maunders of this city, and one son, Peter Rhoda of Junction City, survive, together with three sisters, Mrs. August Kling and Mrs. John Mischnik of Dancy and Mrs. John Schrom of Junction City. There are also four grandchildren, Geo. A. Danielson of Appleton, Susie Rhoda of Junction City, and Elizabeth and Norman DeLong of this city. Mrs. Danielson had been with her mother for four weeks previous to her death and other relatives will be here for the funeral, which will be held from St. Joseph's Catholic church at 9 o'clock Friday morning, Rev. H. J. Ehr officiating, with interment beside her husband in the parish cemetery.

MRS. JOS. JAKUSCH.

Following a long illness with asthma and cancer of the stomach, Mrs. Joseph Jakusch passed away at her home, 219 North avenue, at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The deceased lady was born in German-Prussia and was 63 years of age. She had resided in Stevens Point since her arrival in this country in 1887, and was highly respected by neighbors and friends. Besides her husband she leaves eight children, as follows: John, Frank, Felix and Mrs. Lillie Lake of this city, and Mrs. Frances Binewski, Mrs. Mary Worzalla, Miss Pauline Jakusch and Mrs. Anna Giese of Milwaukee.

The funeral will be held from St. Peter's church at 8 o'clock Friday morning, Rev. S. A. Elbert officiating, with interment in the parish cemetery.

FIRST FALL MEETING

Well Attended Gathering of Woman's Club Members Listen to Excellent Program Saturday Afternoon.

There was a large attendance at the initial meeting of the Woman's Club, last Saturday afternoon, and after the routine business of the day had been disposed of the program announced last week was carried out.

The first number was a piano solo by Miss Gladys Blood, entitled "September Morn," which was greatly enjoyed and Miss Blood responded to an encore.

The president's address was characteristic of Mrs. Leahy in its directness and completeness. She spoke of the splendid harmony of the past year and asked for a continuance of the same loyal support. Among other things she said: "Our club has always borne a reputation for accomplishing things, due largely to the fact that we were always in earnest, always presenting a solid and progressive front in our march toward the object or end we sought to reach. This should be our incentive for still greater things in the future."

A most pleasing violin solo was given by Miss Helen Humphrey, of the High school faculty, accompanied on the piano by Miss Nina Coye, and an encore was responded to. Mrs. J. J. Heffron, Mrs. W. A. Stewart and Mrs. D. J. Leahy gave reminiscences from different viewpoints of the biennial convention held in Chicago last June. Mrs. Heffron's paper gave a full and comprehensive report of the changes in the attitude of the convention towards women's clubs resolved to give the cause of political equality its moral support. Mrs. Stewart discussed the federation's attitude toward dress and morals. The importance of clothes philosophy was emphasized by the following words, "If it be true that a man thinks, so is he, it is very true that what a woman wears and the way she wears it, so is she." It would be impossible to hear the number of good ideas brought out by Mrs. Stewart's paper and not be helped thereby.

Mrs. Leahy brought out the fact of the universality of the Woman's Club movement. At the biennial there were representatives seated on the platform from India, England, Canada, Alaska, China, Japan and other countries, who came bringing greetings and reports of the work done by women's clubs in their part of the world. To illustrate the immensity of that meeting Mrs. Leahy called attention to the fact that thousands of dollars were expended for music alone and that in a little over an hour $20,000 was raised for the endowment fund.

New Law Firm at Wausau.

Edward E. Johnson, who is now practicing law at Wausau, attended to legal matters and visited among friends in this city last Friday and Saturday. The firm of Edgar & Johnson has been organized at Wausau, with offices in McCrossen block.

Notes From the Normal School.

Rev. Schmidt of the Friedens church has enrolled for the purpose of taking special work in English under Prof. Hippensteel.

The Y. W. C. A. gave a reception to new students and faculty on Monday evening, and the Obiyehs held its initial meeting on Tuesday evening. An innovation, much needed in the curriculum, has been introduced by the establishment of a course in public speaking under the direction of Prof. Smith, who has achieved such signal success in dramatics.

The special arrangement whereby our domestic science students have opportunity to practice in the city schools, is continued for the coming year, and Miss Allen has already placed twenty-six practice teachers in her department.

The enrollment up to noon today reaches the large total of 417, which is 14 in excess of the entire number who attended last year. Several additional students are expected within the next week or two and others at the beginning of the winter and spring semesters. It is predicted that the attendance for 1914-1915 will be 450, and possibly as many as 475.

A conference of the heads of the several departments, for the purpose of discussing ways and means for more definitely and thoroughly preparing teachers for service in rural primary, grammar and High schools, as well as in domestic science positions, was held on Thursday. The following faculty members serve in this capacity: Training school, Prof. F. S. Hyer; rural, Prof. John Phelan; primary, Miss Helen Parkhurst; grammar, Prof. M. M. Ames; High school, Prof. H. S. Hippensteel; domestic science, Miss Bessie M. Allen; academic dept., Prof. A. J. Herrick. Out of these conferences will grow activities which will elevate S. P. N. to the front rank of Normal schools. No other Normal in the middle west has made more notable progress in this essential specialization.

Parker and daughter, Miss Veda, returned the first of the week from an extended trip through the west, which included a tour of Yellowstone Park and a visit with Mrs. Parker's brother, Henry M. Sitherwood, at Livingston, Mont. Another of Mrs. Parker's daughters, Mrs. Laura MacMartin of Chicago, also came from the western country on Monday and she and Miss Veda went to Chicago that night. From there they go to New York, where Veda enrolls as a student at the Finch school for girls.

That the war in Europe has not only a paralyzing effect on that entire continent, whether in peace or in battle, as well as the business interests of the United States, no one acquainted with facts doubts for a moment. Great Britain and her provinces the world around are patrons of the United States to the extent of more than a billion dollars annually, with a balance of trade in our favor of more than half that great sum. Germany is another of our best customers, and buys of us to an amount something in excess of $200,000,000. Canada alone in the year ending with March, 1913, took imports from us valued at $441,143,000, showing that our nearest neighbor is by far our most convenient and valuable commercial customer. With France and her colonies our trade aggregates something like $150,000,000, which is very nearly offset by their sales to us. Our next best European customers are Belgium and the Netherlands.

Edward Lowth, for twenty-five years a member of the Wisconsin Veterans' Home near Waupaca, spent part of Saturday in this city on a business trip. Mr. Lowth is a very busy man attending to the wants of old soldiers and widows in pension matters, and through well developed policy of stick-to-activeness he invariably achieves the desired results. Mrs. Lowth was a former resident of Portage county, her first husband being the late Perry Hopkins.

Aged North Side Lady Dies.

Mrs. Victoria Czapiewski, aged 87 years, died at 12:30 o'clock last Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Kubiteki, 230 North street. Doing a Good Work.

Rev. Wm. R. Braun, who about three months ago was transferred from Francis Creek to Kellersville, Manitowoc county, is about to erect a handsome new church and parsonage at the latter point. Both will be built of pressed brick and hollow tile, the church to be 46x124 feet in size, with a side steeple 140 feet high, while the house will be 47x37 feet, two stories. The basement of the church will contain a church and society hall. The congregation will furnish all material, including brick, tile, cement, art glass windows, heating, plumbing, wiring and inside furnishings and the lowest bid received for doing the work was $21,527, while they ran as high as $31,938. The reverend gentleman says he has already secured $24,000 and will get the necessary balance with a little more hustling.

Father Braun is a native of Stevens Point, a son of John Braun, who has been employed in the Soo shops here Friday Evening's Reception.

Nearly all of the four hundred students, members of the faculty and quite a few of our townspeople were at the Normal school last Friday evening, where a delightful reception was held in honor of the new students. No formal program was carried out, but Miss Baker favored the assemblage with a couple of solos and most of those present enjoyed an hour or more in dancing. Frappe was served. It isn't safe to suggest that the young people now attending the state school are any brighter or better looking than the girls and boys who have come here in other years, but it is beyond dispute that the present body of students will rank well up with the best of them.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
Department of State.)

Notice is hereby given that at a general election to be held in the several towns, wards, villages and election districts of the state of Wisconsin, on the first Tuesday succeeding the first Monday of November, A. D. 1914, being the third day of said month, the following officers are to be elected.

A governor in place of Francis E. McGovern, whose term of office will expire on the first Monday of January, A. D. 1915.

A lieutenant governor in place of Thomas Morris, whose term of office will expire on the first Monday of January, 1915.

A secretary of state in place of John S. Donald, whose term of office will expire on the first Monday of January, 1915.

A state treasurer in place of Henry Johnson, whose term of office will expire on the first Monday of January, 1915.

An attorney general in place of Walter C. Owen, whose term of office will expire on the first Monday of January, 1915.

A United States senator in place of Isaac Stephenson, whose term of office will expire on the fourth day of March, 1915.

A representative in congress for the Eighth congressional district, comprised of the counties of Marathon, Portage, Waupaca, Waushara, Wood and Shawano.

A state senator for the Twenty-third senatorial district, comprised of the counties of Waupaca and Portage.

A member of assembly for Portage county.

In accordance with Section 1 of Article XII of the constitution of the state of Wisconsin, and Chapter 770 of the Laws of 1913, the following joint resolutions adopted by the legislature of the state of Wisconsin at its regular sessions of 1911 and 1913 are made a part of the foregoing notice and are to be voted upon at said election, to-wit:

[Joint Resolution No. 9, A.]

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 12.

To amend section 13 to article VIII of the constitution, relating to state insurance.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1911, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That there be added to article VIII of the state constitution a new section to read: Section 13. The state may grant insurance upon such risks and in such manner as may be prescribed by law, and the limitations or restrictions provided in the constitution shall not apply to this subject; but provision shall be made for annual accounting for all liabilities assumed, and for the separation and safeguarding of all funds and property held by the state or account of any such insurance;" now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature.

Note. (If adopted, this amendment will confer upon the legislature express power to enact legislation providing for state insurance.)

[Jt. Res. No. 18, S.]

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 15.

To amend article XIII of the constitution, providing for the recall of public officers.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1911, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That article XIII of the constitution be amended by adding thereto a new section to read:

Section 12. The legislature shall provide for the removal by recall from office, by the qualified electors of the electoral district in which any officer is elected, of every public officer in the state of Wisconsin holding an elective office, except judicial officers;" now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature.

Note. (If adopted, this amendment will enable the legislature to pass a law providing for the recall of all officers, including elective constitutional officers, but not including judicial officers.)

[Jt. Res. No. 22, S.]

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 17.

To amend section 1, article XII, of the constitution, providing for the submission of amendments to the constitution by the legislature by a three-fifths vote of the members elected.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1911, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That section 1 of article XII of the constitution be amended to read:

Section 1. Any amendment or amendments to this constitution may be proposed in either house of the legislature, and if the same shall be agreed to by three-fifths of the members elected to each of the two houses, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, the same shall be published for three months before the next general election and shall be submitted to the qualified electors at such election; and if the people shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments by a majority of the electors voting thereon, such amendment or amendments shall become a part of the constitution; provided, that if more than one amendment be submitted, they shall be submitted in such manner that the people may vote for or against such amendments separately;" now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, that the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature.

Note. (If adopted, this amendment will change the method of amending the constitution so that amendments may be adopted by an affirmative vote of three-fifths of the members elected to both houses of one legislature and approval by the people, instead of by a majority vote of both houses of two succeeding legislatures and approval by the people as now required.)

[Jt. Res. No. 19, S.]

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 21.

To create section 3a, of article XI of the constitution, relating to powers of cities and villages.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1911, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That there be added after section 3, of article XI, of the constitution of the state of Wisconsin, a new section to read:

(Article XI) 3a. Cities and villages shall have power and authority to amend their charters, and to frame and adopt new charters, and to enact all laws and ordinances relating to their municipal affairs, subject to the constitution and general laws of the state;" now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature.

Note. (If adopted, this amendment will empower cities and villages to amend their own charters and determine their own powers and authorities, instead of, as now, restricting them to only such powers as are granted to them by the legislature.)

[Jt. Res. No. 4, A.]

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 22.

To amend section 1, of article IV, of the constitution, to give to the people the power to propose laws and to enact or reject the same at the polls, and to approve or reject at the polls any act of the legislature; and to create section 3, of article XII, of the constitution, providing for the submission of amendments to the constitution upon the petition of the people.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1911, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That section 1, of article IV of the constitution, be amended to read:

Section 1. 1. The legislative power shall be vested in a senate and assembly, but the people reserve to themselves power, as herein provided, to propose laws and to enact or reject the same at the polls, independent of the legislature, and to approve or reject at the polls any law or any part of any law enacted by the legislature. The limitations expressed in the constitution on the power of the legislature to enact laws, shall be deemed limitations on the power of the people to enact laws.

2. a. Any senator or member of the assembly may introduce, by presenting to the chief clerk in the house of which he is a member in open session, at any time during any session of the legislature, any bill or any amendment to any such bill; provided, that the time for so introducing a bill may be limited by rule to not less than thirty legislative days.

b. The chief clerk shall make a record of such bill and every amendment offered thereto and have the same printed.

3. A proposed law shall be recited in full in the petition and shall consist of a bill which has been introduced in the legislature during the first thirty legislative days of the session, as so introduced; or, at the option of the petitioners, there may be incorporated in said bill any amendment or amendments introduced in the legislature. Such bill and amendments shall be referred to by number in the petition. Upon petition filed not later than four months before the next same printed.

3. A proposed law shall be recited in full in the petition, and shall consist of a bill which has been introduced in the legislature during the first thirty legislative days of the session, as so introduced; or, at the option of the petitioners, there may be incorporated in said bill any amendment or amendments introduced in the legislature. Such bill and amendments shall be referred to by number in the petition. Upon petition filed not later than four months before the next general election, such proposed law shall be submitted to a vote of the people, and shall become a law if it is approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, and shall take effect and be in force from and after thirty days after the election at which it is approved.

4. a. No law enacted by the legislature, except an emergency law, shall take effect before ninety days after its passage and publication. If within said ninety days there shall have been filed a petition to submit to a vote of the people such law or any part thereof such law or such part thereof shall not take effect until thirty days after its approval by a majority of the qualified electors voting thereon.

b. An emergency law shall remain in force, notwithstanding such petition, but shall stand repealed thirty days after being rejected by a majority of the qualified electors voting thereon.

c. An emergency law shall be any law declared by the legislature to be necessary for any immediate purpose of each house voting thereon, entered on their journals by the yeas and nays. No law making any appropriation for maintaining the state government or maintaining or aiding any public institution, not exceeding the next previous appropriation for the same purpose, shall be subject to rejection or repeal under this section.

The increase in any such appropriation shall only take effect as in case signed by eight per cent of the qualified electors of the members of other laws, and such increase, or any part thereof, specified in the petition may be referred to a vote of the people upon petition.

5. If measures which conflict with each other in any of their essential provisions are submitted at the same election, only the measure receiving the highest number of votes shall stand as the enactment of the people.

6. The petition shall be filed with the secretary of state and shall be sufficient to require the submission by him of a measure to the people when filed electors calculated upon the whole number of votes cast for governor at the last preceding election, of whom not more than one-half shall be residents of any one county.

7. The vote upon measures referred to the people shall be taken at the next election occurring not less than four months after the filing of the petition, and held generally throughout the state pursuant to law or specially called by the governor.

8. The legislature shall provide for furnishing electors the text of measures to be voted upon by the people.

9. Except that measures specifically affecting a subdivision of the state may be submitted to the people of that subdivision, the legislature shall submit measures to the people only as required by the constitution.

Note. (If adopted, this amendment will change the provisions of the constitution which vest the power to make laws exclusively in the senate and assembly, so that the people may directly and on their own initiative enact laws and may reject laws passed by the legislature.)

Be it further resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That article XII of the constitution be amended by creating a new section to read:

Section 3. 1. a. Any senator or member of the assembly may introduce, by presenting to the chief clerk in the house in which he is a member, in open session, at any time during any session of the legislature, any proposed amendment to the constitution or any amendment to any such proposed amendment to the constitution; provided, that the time for so introducing a proposed amendment to the constitution may be limited by rule to not less than thirty legislative days.

b. The chief clerk shall make a record of such proposed amendments to the constitution and any amendment thereto and have the same printed.

2. Any proposed amendment to the constitution shall be recited in full in the petition and shall consist of an amendment which has been introduced in the legislature during the first thirty legislative days, as so introduced, or, at the option of the petitioners, there may be incorporated therein any amendment or amendments thereto introduced in the legislature. Such amendment to the constitution and amendments thereto shall be referred to by number in the petition. Upon petition filed not later than four months before the next general election, such proposed amendment shall be submitted to the people.

3. The petition shall be filed with the secretary of state and shall be sufficient to require the submission by him of a proposed amendment to the constitution to the people when signed by ten percent of the qualified electors, calculated upon the whole number of votes cast for governor at the last preceding election, of whom not more than one-half shall be residents of any one county.

4. Any proposed amendment or amendments to this constitution, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses of the legislature, shall be entered on their journals with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and be submitted to the people by the secretary of state upon petition filed with him signed by five per cent of the qualified electors, calculated upon the whole number of votes cast for governor at the last preceding election, of whom not more than one-half shall be residents of any one county.

5. The legislature shall provide for furnishing the electors the text of all amendments to the constitution to be voted upon by the people.

6. If the people shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments by a majority of the electors voting thereon, such amendment or amendments shall become a part of the constitution, from and after the election at which approved; provided, that if more than one amendment be submitted they shall be submitted in such a manner that the people may vote for or against such amendments separately.

7. If proposed amendments to the constitution which conflict with each other in any of their essential provisions are submitted at the same election, only the proposed amendment receiving the highest number of votes shall become a part of the constitution;" now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature.

Note. (If adopted, this amendment will require the legislature, upon petition, to submit constitutional amendments to the people for adoption or rejection.)

[Jt. Res. No. 8, A.]

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 24.

To amend section 21, of article IV, of the constitution, relating to compensation of members of the legislature.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1911, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That section 21 of article IV, of the constitution, be amended to read:

Section 21. Each member of the legislature shall receive for his services the sum of six hundred dollars per annum, and two cents for every mile he shall travel in going to and returning from the place of meeting of the legislature on the most usual route. In case of an extra session of the legislature, no additional compensation shall be allowed to any member thereof, either directly or indirectly, except for mileage, to be computed at the same rate as for a regular session. No newspapers, postage or other perquisites, except the salary and mileage above provided, shall be received from the state by any member of the legislature for his services or in any other manner as such member;" now, therefore, be it

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 26.

To amend sections 6 and 7, of article VII, of the constitution of the state of Wisconsin, relating to circuit judges.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1911, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That section 6, article VII, and section 7, article VII, of the constitution, be amended to read: Section 6. The legislature may alter the limits, decrease or increase the number of circuits, making them as compact and convenient as practicable, and bounding them by county lines; but no such alteration, decrease or increase shall have the effect to remove a judge from office. In case of an increase of circuits, the judge or judges shall be elected as provided in this constitution, and receive a salary not less than that herein provided for judges of the circuit court.

Section 7. For each circuit there shall be chosen by the qualified electors thereof, one or more circuit judges, as the legislature may, from time to time, authorize. Every circuit judge shall reside in the circuit from which he is elected, and shall hold his office for such term and receive such compensation as the legislature shall prescribe;" now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature.

Note. (If adopted, this amendment will permit the legislature to change the number of judicial circuits and to provide for one or more circuit judges in each circuit, whereas the constitution now requires one judge in each circuit except in Milwaukee county.)

Yes, silage has been proved to be a splendid sheep relish, but will sometimes hurt sheep if too suddenly fed, or fed in too large quantities. This is true of almost any good feed or grain with almost any animal. The good feeder of horses, as well as sheep, makes gradual changes.

Rheumatism Pains Stopped.

The first application of Sloan's Liniment goes right to the painful part—it penetrates without rubbing—it stops the rheumatic pains around the joints and gives relief and comfort. Don't suffer! Get a bottle today. It is a family medicine for all pains, hurts, bruises, cuts, sore throat, neuralgia and chest pains. Prevents infection. Mr. Charles H. Wentworth, California, writes:—"It did wonders for my rheumatism, pain is gone as soon as I apply it. I recommended it to my friends as the best liniment I ever used." The cow's udders should be thoroughly cleaned and their flanks rubbed off with a damp cloth to prevent dust and dirt from dropping into the milk. Where cows have an opportunity to stand during the day in stagnant pools such precautions are especially necessary.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.

"My attention was first called to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as much as twelve years ago. At that time I was seriously ill with summer complaint. One dose of this remedy checked the trouble," writes Mrs. C. W. Florence, Rockfield, Ind. For sale by all dealers.

WHY WEAK LUNGS?
The toll of tuberculosis is claiming more than 350 victims every day in the United States, yet few realize their grave condition until the critical period arrives.
Overwork, worry, weakness after sickness, catarrh, bronchitis, throat-all exert the weakening influence that invites consumption.
To guard against consumption, thousands of people take Scott's Emulsion after meals because its rich medicinal nourishment strengthens the lungs, puts vigor in the blood, and upbuilds strength to resist tuberculosis. Scott's Emulsion is nature's strength-builder. Refuse substitutes.
